	Equine Influenza – Horsing about with a quarantine crisis	23
	Howell & Rohan examine the critical role that traditional and new media played in the communication program for the geographically widespread equine influenza crisis in Australia in 2007.

The Australian Journal of Emergency Management

ABOUT THE JOURNAL

The Australian Journal of Emergency Management is Australia's premier international Journal in emergency management. Its format and content is developed with reference to peak emergency management organisations and the emergency management sectors—domestically and internationally. The Journal focuses on both the academic and practitioner reader and its aim is to strengthen capabilities in the sector by documenting, growing and disseminating an emergency management body of knowledge.

Papers are published in all areas of emergency management. The Journal emphasises empirical reports but may include specialised theoretical, methodological, case study and review papers.

PUBLISHER

The Australian Journal of Emergency Management is published by the Australian Government's Attorney-General's Department.

EXECUTIVE EDITOR

The Editor-in-Chief of the Journal with final responsibility for the Journal's operations and policies is Martin Studdert AM, National Security Capability Development Division of the Australian Government's Attorney-General's Department.
